

Water and electricity at the core of EDF's business

Water is the first renewable energy to produce electricity.
It is also needed for cooling purposes in nuclear and fossil-fuel power plants.

As a responsible industrial operator, EDF's ongoing concern is to preserve the quantity and quality of the water used in its activities.

